The Vicar's Monthly Message Easter Promise

By the time you read this we will have celebrated Easter together and some of us will have enjoyed the opportunity to catch up with one another during the bring and share lunch.

As we enjoy seeing the signs of Spring let us remember that Easter-tide is a wonderful time full of hope. We are a resurrection people, we know that death is not the end that there is the offer of eternal life. Not only does that apply to our faith but also to our church life. As we all know Spring is a time of growth, a time of renewal and hopefully this year we will see these things re-emerge in our church and spiritual life. What may have appeared dead, will be brought to new life. We can reach out afresh out into our communities, to meet new people and share our faith, which in turn will help our churches to grow not only numerically but grow in the depth of our discipleship.

Eastertide Blessings - Teresa

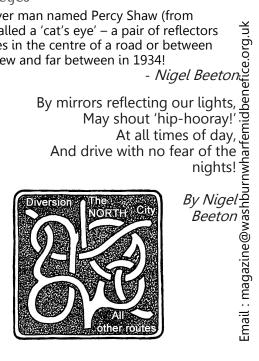

Cat's eyes

90 years ago, on 3rd April 1934, a very clever man named Percy Shaw (from Halifax) invented and patented a device called a 'cat's eye' – a pair of reflectors mounted on a well between the white lines in the centre of a road or between lanes on a dual carriageway (which were few and far between in 1934!

When you drive on a road late at night And the dark is affecting your sight; At that time of day It's easy to stray Too far with your car to the right!

But we've been protected from tears For most of the past ninety years, Since a man who was wise Invented cat's eyes So the edge of your lane now appears! Now drivers, protected from frights

News from Norwood Chapel

Dear Friends,

Recently, our Methodist Circuit held a Lenten Day Retreat at Norwood Retreat Centre. Twenty-two of us gathered to explore the theme 'Resting in God.' Did you know that there are at least seven different types of rest that humans need? (physical, mental, emotional, social, sensory, creative and spiritual rest). Who knew we were such complex creations?! The Bible tells us that we are created in the image and likeness of God. God needed to rest after the creation of the world and all its inhabitants. I wonder what kind of rest God needed. Was it all of the above? And does God still need to take rests? Hmmm ... that's something to ponder!

Putting the focus back on us, what does it mean to rest our spirit or to have spiritual rest? There are several scripture readings that speak of this:

- Psalm 91:1 "He who dwells in the shelter of the Most High will rest in the shadow of the Almighty."
- Psalm 37:7 "Rest in the Lord and wait patiently for him."
- Psalm 62:1 "My soul finds rest in God alone; my salvation comes from him.

Rest in the Lord can refer to a spiritual rest from confusion, worry, stress, and useless effort. The Hebrew word translated as 'rest' means 'to be at peace,' 'to be still,' or 'to be guiet or calm.' In place of "rest in the Lord," some Bible translations say, "Be still before the Lord." Contemplative practices can help us to be physically still and quiet as we reflect on God or made more aware of the Divine ¥ Love that dwells with us and within us.

On our retreat day, we dwelt in the presence of God through a guided meditation called Take Time Meditations. In these meditations, one listens to a Gospel story and imagines that they are in the story while it's happening. After the story ends, Jesus invites the listener to sit with him and to share whatever is on their heart. Folks have shared how moving and powerful this meditative practice was for them. And others have found it most beneficial to imagine that Jesus is sitting with them when they are going through struggles. A deep peace quickly finds its way to their anxious hearts.

Lectio Divina ('sacred reading'), Visio Divina ('sacred seeing') and the Ignatian Examen are other contemplative practices that help us dwell in the presence of the Lord and listen for God's invitation in our daily lives. Being out in nature also has a way of calming the soul like none other.

What do you do in order to rest? And what do you do in order to rest in God? Whatever it is, I hope you're able to carve out time in order to be still and quiet. We all need rest - remember we have been created in the image and likeness of With every blessing, ~ Rev. Shannon God. May your soul find rest so that your mind, body and spirit can feel refreshed and re-energised for the invitations God places in your daily life.

The Birds in Your Garden

Unpredictable Weather

What does our unpredictable weather mean if you are a bird?

Everyone knows that climate change is slowly but surely changing the long standing relationships between species. Relationships and dependencies that have built up slowly over millennia are now being rushed into changing, and whilst many species will adapt, the speed at which they can do so will vary, leading to cumulative and unpredictable disruption.

For example, the onset of growth in spring is determined by daylight length and temperature, with temperature having the more significant effect in most species. If it was only light, plants could start growing when frosts are still a threat or miss good growing time in mild early spring days. This variation in how plant species react is causing increasing chaos in the environment generally.

How is this likely to affect garden birds?

The next few months promise to give us an idea, as with several of the warmest and wettest winter months on record behind us, life is and will be difficult for many species even if we see no more extremes, which is unlikely.

We are accustomed to a spring, a summer, an autumn, and a winter, but these are becoming blurred and the transition from one to another has moved by around two weeks. You will have noticed plants flowering earlier than usual: a 2022 study revealed that spring blooms are arriving almost a month earlier than in the 1980s.

If flowers appear in March instead of April many insects risk emerging a month late, which will in turn disrupt the whole ecosystem.

BirdWatch

Blue Tits and Great Tits are among many species which time their breeding to align with the peak abundance of caterpillars. If that availability changes rapidly, they can't keep up, and they generally only have one chance to breed each year. So far, for every ten-day advance in caterpillar emergence, birds have only been able to bring forward their egg laying by around three to five days.

The recent weather will have had an effect other species too: owls cannot hunt when it is raining – they rely on their hearing to find small mammals, and their feathers are designed for silent flight, not to be waterproof. The incessant rain will have made keeping warm and dry a problem for many birds, especially small ones. Water-logged ground will have reduced the availability of food for many others, for example, Blackbirds and thrushes which need a plentiful supply of worms. This means that many birds will be in less than optimal physical condition when egg laying and chick feeding start. Both are energetically very demanding activities. The weather this spring will have an even greater effect than usual on the success of the breeding season. Some later nesting species may yet be able to ... and their feathers are designed for later nesting species may yet be able to :: improve their physical condition, those which make multiple attempts such as Blackbirds, Dunnocks and sparrows may be able to catch up, but all will depend not only on what the weather does, but also on how the timing of the availability of food fits with their need for it.

Climate change won't simply bring seasons when everything happens either earlier or later. Some species will delay hibernation or migration, but others will stick to their original schedule, taking their cues from day length rather than temperature. This will be problematic for birds making the long trek from Africa. Something that has already been seen with Cuckoos: their departure from West Africa has hardly changed and is contributing significantly to their reduced numbers.

If you find the lives of our garden birds to be of interest and would like to join in and count the feathered occupants of your garden, please visit the BTO Garden BirdWatch website (www.bto.org/gbw). If you know of an organisation which would like a talk on garden birds, contact Mike Grav via gbwmike@gmail.com.

Leathley Parish Room – A shaggy dog story

Jack, the mongrel dog who joined HMS Speedwell in 1939, belonged to the ship and not to any particular person. The Tanky and Postman, Able Seaman Kesby, cared for Jack aboard ship. Jack would escort both the post and the signal man, Hickling, whenever their duties took them ashore. Both were keen walkers, and Jack always escorted them should their walks take them to a friendly pub.

Despite having some labrador genes, it is reported that Jack was never a glutton. He maintained his trim figure, and never suffered from sea sickness (lucky him). He usually slept in the central store, but if Speedwell was in action, would move to the wireless office where the noise of the guns was lessened by the sound proofing. He was a good look out, and often gave the first warning of approaching enemy aircraft. He would growl and bark, look in the direction of the approaching aircraft, then head for the wireless office. He wasn't only a good look out for aircraft. If a little bit of gambling was taking place on the mess deck, Jack was posted as lookout. If he heard the boatswain's whistle signalling the night rounds, he would bark furiously. By the time the officer of the day reached the mess deck, there would be a decorous game of whist in progress.

Jack was true to his namesake and was very nimble. He rapidly mastered climbing the ladders on the ship, although one proved troublesome. The ladder from the wheelhouse to the bridge was almost vertical. Jack did master it, but was inclined to tug at the nearest trouser leg to request a help up. He was always the first to jump into the motorboat when it was going ashore, but never failed to be in place to return. He is reported to have travelled all over England and Scotland by rail, but never having bought a ticket. Apparently he would leave his escort at the ticket barrier and make his own way onto the platform to wait for them. Once on the train, he would lie on the carriage floor, and hide under the seats when he heard "Tickets Please", only to reappear when the coast was clear.

Speedwell spent quite some time in Russia. To help Jack cope with the conditions, Tanky made him a set of soft leather boots. Jack's coat grew long and shaggy, so he appeared long and shaggy, so he appeared happy in the snow. The sailors recounted that Jack became very "friendly" with the half wild Russian huskies on the quay side at Polyarnoe, near Murmansk. He would also accompany the crew on to the ski slopes and slide at great speed down the hard packed snow. Jack was retired at the end of the war, and went to live out his days in a village near Aberdeen. Sadly, I have village near Aberdeen. Sadly, I have not been able to find a picture of him, out pernaps it is best to leave to the imagination a large black labrador in leather boots sliding down the Russian slopes and clambering up ships ladders! Gardeners Corner

I hope you have all had a very happy Easter. It has been such a funny season so far, with very few frosts to check emerging growth, but ground too wet to do much. If you are behind like me, don't worry - it is never too late to tackle those jobs that should have been done sooner!

Plenty of time to plant the potatoes that have been chitting; either in prepared trenches in the ground or in containers. If the latter, place about a 3" depth of compost in a bag or large pot, position three potatoes eyes up and then cover with more compost. Keep watered and as the shoots and leaves appear continue to apply more compost until you reach the top of the container. You should be able to harvest in July, later for maincrop potatoes.

Now is the time for sowing. Hardy vegetables, eg beetroot, carrots, leeks, peas, can be sown direct into prepared seed beds, but courgettes, spinach and sweetcorn should be sown indoors or in the greenhouse, ready for planting out in May once all risk of frost has gone. Sweet peas can also be sown outside, but take care with seedlings brought on in the greenhouse. Make sure they are fully hardened off and protect them from strong winds.

If you need to prune or cut back hedges, do first check that there are no nesting birds - if necessary leave trimming until July. It's a good idea to mulch around fruit trees and of course the borders if you haven't already done so. This will not only provide vital nourishment but will also keep the weeds at bay.

One of the best ways to increase biodiversity in the garden is to make a pond. This doesn't have to be huge an old sink will do the job! First block up the plug hole, place some gravel in the bottom and some stones at one end to make a wildlife ramp. Fill with rainwater if available and then add pond plants. Most garden centres now sell a selection of aquatic plants. Do make sure that you buy those that will not outgrow the space. If you are lucky enough to have a large pond, now is a good time to add more plants. Don't dredge at this time of year, as that will disturb the wildlife, leave it until the autumn. If you do have to remove any plants or leaves, remember to leave them on the side of the pond so that any wildlife can make its way back to the water.

There will be plenty of other jobs to do in the garden as Spring progresses with all its promise. Enjoy being outside and getting your hands dirty!

At our meeting in February we had a presentation of two energy efficient small cookers, an Air fryer and a Remoska. Members were given a blind tasting of a banana and walnut cake made to the same recipe but cooked in the two different appliances. The Air Fryer won narrowly!

On April 10th Fiona Arnold, a local recently qualified basketry expert will visit our meeting to talk about basket making generally and in particular in Yorkshire and also about willow growing. She will bring willow and demonstrate weaving techniques and also talk about her journey into weaving and her training. In addition she'll look at baskets that people bring and tell them what she knows about them. For more information see https:// www.instagram.com/ braythornebaskets/

Following this on Wednesday May 8th we will be visiting Appletree's Flock to appreciate the work of a diverse smallholding and see some new lambs and spring flowers

To view our programme for 2024 please visit https://yorkshire-northwest.thewi.org.uk/find-wi/farnleyestate.

All our meetings take place on the second Wednesday of the month at Leathley Village Hall at 7.30pm. In addition on the 4th Wednesday of the month our walking group ventures out for walks locally with either a coffee or picnic stop.

If you would like to come to any of the events above or want to know more about our WI please contact Diane Hanline our President by email to farnlevestatewi@gmail.com
